PROJECTS

- Performance Analysis of TCP variants in congested networks: [code]
  - Designed an environment with an asynchronous-event-driven server and clients to simulate network congestion
  - In our results, we found TCP reno to be performing well under different types of network congestion

- Analysis of search engine variants | Information Retrieval: [code]
  - Developed two search engines using vector space model and Locality Sensitive Hashing on the bible dataset
  - In our comparison, we found the LSH variant to be very fast and accurate than the vector-space variant

- Time Cards Management System | Software Engineering: [code]
  - Created a web application to help companies track employees' time cards, leaves and generate salaries
